In ancient Greek religion and mythology, Pan (/pæn/; Ancient Greek: Πάν, romanized: Pán) is the god of the wild, shepherds and flocks, nature of mountain wilds, rustic music and impromptus, and companion of the nymphs. He has the hindquarters, legs, and horns of a goat, in the same manner as a faun or satyr. With his homeland in rustic Arcadia, he is also recognized as the god of

Why Did God Create People if He Knew So Many Would Go to Hell?

For eternity, we will enjoy the "surpassing riches of His grace." But if there had been no Fall, we would never have seen God's grace at all because there would have been no moral crimes and no deserved punishment. God reveals His righteousness in judgment, and He reveals His grace in His freely-given, undeserved salvation.

At the end of the song, as Reba sings the last few notes, it reveals that the father passed away the year before. She realizes that he never told her he loved her, prompting the heartbreaking final line, "Guess he thought I knew." The song instantly became one of Reba's greatest hits. But then LeAnn Rimes took it one step further.

Occam's razor, Ockham's razor, Ocham's razor (Latin: novacula Occami), or law of parsimony (Latin: lex parsimoniae) is the problem-solving principle that "entities should not be multiplied without necessity", or more simply, the simplest explanation is usually the right one. The idea is attributed to English Franciscan friar William of Ockham (c. 1287-1347), a scholastic philosopher and

God Heard. God Remembered. God Saw. God Knew

God Knew. God is aware of our problems. His knowledge is intimate and personal. "The God of the covenant, the God who sees, hears, and remembers, is the God who knows our situation in all its desperate need" (Philip Ryken). One of the best ways to read Scripture is to look for what Scripture teaches us about God and ourselves.
